

Act for Development NGO

Act for Development is a non-governmental organization non-profit and apolitical registered under number 2016/1367/DEP-ATL-LIT/SG/SAG-ASSOC of 03 March 2016. It is based in Benin in sub-Saharan Africa and involved in key areas of Research-Action, Agribusiness, environment and the promotion of renewable energies.

Its mission is to build practical and strategic capacity of actors in agricultural sector for efficient management of resources in the respect for the environment to ensure their well-being and that of populations in general.

Driven by the vision of being an organization committed to an integrated and sustainable development of farming communities, Act-Dev NGO intends to take action to inclusive and participatory with all local, national and international marrying his ideals in a context of sustainable improvement in the level and quality of life in African rural and urban populations. So she works for:

- the integration of environmental issues into all rural interventions;
- developing innovative and resilient agricultural systems to climate change to the fight against poverty;
- the effective use of research results in the agricultural fields and natural sciences;
 - increase cooperation between public and private organizations, national and international working to promote the scientific results of the agricultural, economic and socio-cultural;

- Promote agri-tourism and biodiversity conservation.

For these fifteen (15) years Act-Dev NGOs working under the guidelines of the Sustainable Development Goals related to its areas of intervention and intends to expand its activities through its representations and its involvement in matters related to defense the interests of the most vulnerable populations in urban and rural areas.

The management of the NGO is provided by a board supported by a multidisciplinary technical team made up of young assets supported by experts' seniors for the effective achievement of its objectives to contribute to sustainable development of communities in Africa in general and Benin in particular.

Act-Dev NGO believes that all men without exception have useful indigenous knowledge for the development of their communities and that is why she put priority on sharing experiences and promoting innovations among peoples.

Membership in the NGO is open to anyone sharing the same vision and that it fulfills the conditions in force included in its draft statutes and rules of procedure.

